

Descendant Register for Petrus VON KNAUTH

First Generation

1. Petrus VON KNAUTH was born 1509. He died 15 May 1595 in Naumburg, Germany.

Occupation : Erbgessener zu Siebenlehn und Breitenbach (Owner of the inherited farmland of Siebenlehn and Breitenbach).

The "von" in the name of Petrus von Knauth and Barbara von Triller shows that they were ennobled. Apparently it was not heritable and they were not of noble blood and the "von" vanished in the next generation.

From Stephen Pfeiffer email : ... according to my mother (Sybilla Knauth-Pfeiffer), Petrus von Knauth donated a silver chalice to the church in Siebenlehn near Leipzig back in the 1500's. (We live in Germany, though we are Americans.)

From Peter von Knauth info provided by Detlef Schmidt :

Peter (von) Knauth (* 1528? † 15.11.1595 in Naumburg) of respected civic generation. He was the owner of two goods to Siebenlehn and Breitenbach, where his family probably originates and is detected there since 1509. His family is believed to originate from Thuringia, Sangerhausen.

The complete strain range of the former respected private banking house of Knauth, Nachod & Kühne in Leipzig (founded in 1871/72 by Franz Theodor Knauth, consul in Leipzig * 1803 † 1874

Father: Carl Gottlob Knauth * 1773 † 1813,

Grandfather, Abraham Knauth * 1739 † 02.16.1800 in Naumburg)

Begins with Peter Knauth as the progenitor. The bank was closed in 1945 by SMAD order and liquidated by the Saxon State Bank.

SMAD : Soviet Military Administration in Deutschland (Germany)

- Petrus married Barbara VON TRILLER in 1535. Barbara was born 1516. She died 1601.

'von' in the Triller name : Behind the von Triller seems to be a historical event. In 1455 the two sons of the elector of Saxony, the young princes Ernst and Albrecht, were kidnapped. With the help of a charcoal burner named Georg Schmidt they were freed. The charcoal burner received from the elector as a reward and present a land estate near Zwickau and the name Triller. I presume that on this occasion he was ennobled.

133. Franz Theodor KNAUTH (Carl Gottlob KNAUTH, Abraham KNAUTH, Johann Wilhelm KNAUTH, Christian Gottlob KNAUTH, Johannes KNAUTH, Johannes KNAUTH, Philipp KNAUTH, Petrus) was born 25 Apr 1803 in Leipzig, Saxony, Germany. He died Aug 1874 in Leipzig, Saxony, Germany.

Franz Theodor Knauth was born in Gohlis, a village outside the city walls of Leipzig, but not part of the much larger city of today and later went by the shortened name of Theodor Knauth.

Occupation : Kaufmann (Merchant) in Leipzig. Franz was a banker and co-founder of Knauth, Nachod & Keuhne, a German-American banking house.

Knauth Nachod & Keuhne, New York & Leipzig, founded in 1852, prospered through generations of Knauths until 1923, when the house in New York was closed and 1946, when the bank in Leipzig was closed by the post WWII Russian occupation. The bank was in business for a total of 107 years.

From Stephen Pfeiffer email : My mother (Sybilla Knauth-Pfeiffer), remembers that Franz Theodor Knauth, an orphan, crossed the battlefield of the Vielvölkerschlacht at Leipzig (perhaps - fled from Leipzig), when Napoleon was stopped the first time, and made his way to Naumburg, where Cristiane Sophie Knauth, his aunt, took him in. He was apparently 12 at the time.

Franz Theodor Knauth

Franz Theodor Knauth (* April 25 1803 in Leipzig , † August 1874) was a German businessman and banker.

Knauth came from a Saxon merchant family. His father came from Naumburg / Saale Leipzig.

Knauth was a young businessman for Leipzig silks act Dufour worked in France and Mexico. In 1839 he took over together with Samuel Storrow of Boston by Dufour their goods purchase- commission business . After Storrows death in 1842 Knauth made first with his brother-ash as partners. 1852 appeared in its place Nachod Jacob , who had proven themselves in Knauths old company, and Friedrich Kühne.

The Bank House Knauth, Nachod & Kühne was established as a new company with offices in Leipzig and New York. Knauth had recognized that the growing trade between the U.S. and Europe good business prospects offered. The business focus shifted from goods imported to transatlantic banking services. In Saxony Knauth was before 1867 Consul for Colombia, among others.

With his 1848 prematurely deceased first wife Adelheid Esche, he had three children. With his second wife, Elizabeth Fanny Steyer from Leipzig (1828-1907), he had five other children. After his death, his sons Percival Knauth and Antonio Knauth were with the bank. His children moved from Leipzig to the U.S. and were leading members of the German-American society in New York. A granddaughter was the philosopher Susanne K. Langer.

Franz married (1) Adelheid ESCHE on 25 Apr 1842. Adelheid was born 1819. She died 4 Jan 1848 and was buried in Old Saint John's Cemetery, Leipzig, Germany.

From Susanne Barrymore's Family Tree, 1st Marriage name is listed as Adelheid Esche. Franz Theodor Knauth had three children by his first wife.

They had the following children:

- + 147 F ii. Camilla KNAUTH was born 19 Jul 1845 and died after 1918.
- 148 M iii. Fridolin KNAUTH was born Nov 1846 in Leipzig.

Franz also married (2) Fanny Elisabeth STEYER in Nov 1850. Fanny was born 1828 or 1830 in Leipzig, Saxony, Germany. She died 1907.

From Susanne Barrymore's Family Tree and in all other Knauth reference docs, Fanny Elisabeth is listed as 'Steyer'.

From Dr. Ernst-Rainer Schudt's family Tree, Fanny Elisabeth is listed as 'Razner'. If Razner is also correct, it might be that Steyer or Razner were either a maiden name or given name from a marriage prior to Franz Theodor Knauth. However, since she was only 22 when she married, Razner is most likely a misprint.

Dear Ted,

Searching the internet for an information about the Knauth family Leipzig, I came across your website, where I have found, what I was looking for; thank you.

Maybe you are interested in the attached file, which shows the decendants of Camilla Knauth b. 1845. She was married (presumably in 1867) to Gustav Fels (b. 1842), a lawyer (finally at the Reichsgericht in Leipzig). Both went in 1910 to Namibia (at the time: Deutsch Sued-West-Afrika) to live there with her daughter Gerda Fels (1882 - 1976) who was married (1902) to the farmer Erich Rust (1872 - 1963); they died their after 1914, probably after 1919. The descendants after their daughter Gerda are the Rust family on/from the farm Ondekaremba. The elder daughters of Camilla Knauth and Gustav Fels stayed unmarried, their youngest daughter Waltraud Fels (1884 - 1962) married in 1904 Wilhem Anz (1871 - 1943) who at the time was (1900 - 1907) pastor of the lutheran parish in Windhoek. They had no children.

With kind regards

Martin

Hello Martin,

Thank you for submitting genealogy information relative to Knauths.

It is always a pleasure to hear from distant relatives who provide additional information about our ancestors.

I'm glad you provided some details in your email because the pdf file you provided is a little difficult for me to read accurately. I'll add the info to my databases and make updates to my web site accordingly. I'll also add your pdf file to my website under Knauth references, since I may make mistakes for names that I can't read very well.

I'm curious where you (Bultmann Family) fit as relatives. Are you a descendent of Camilla Knauth ?

Best regards,

Ted Huthsteiner

Hello Ted,

- there is, in fact, no relationship between "my families" and any of "your families" (as far as I know ...). And there is no relationship to the Fels and Rust families either. One of my great grandfathers was a younger brother of the pastor in Windhoek Wilhelm Anz (1871 - 1943) who was married to Waltraud Fels, the youngest daughter of Camilla Knauth b. 1845. Their eldest brother Heinrich Anz (1870 - 1944; headmaster of the Gymnasium Ernestinum Gotha) is the author of the original notes (Gotha 1938/39) from which I sent the excerpt file. I have only recently had the opportunity to copy the notes of Heinrich Anz and was just interested in locating the Knauth family as a possible explanation for the marriage.

Obviously all descendants of Camilla Knauth following the generation of her own children are the descendants of her daughter Gerda Fels, i. e. the Rust family on/from the farm Ondekaremba/Namibia.

Leaving away days and months, the data from the file is the following:

Camilla Knauth b. 1845 married (presumably in 1867) to Gustav Fels (b. 1842) (both died presumably after 1918 in Namibia):

- A.1 Adelheid Fels (1868 - 1897): unmarried (= no descendants) (probably still living at the time of the notes 1938/39)
- A.2 Frieda Fels (*1869), unmarried (probably still living at the time of the notes 1938/39)
- A.3 Klara Fels (*1875), unmarried (probably still living at the time of the notes 1938/39)
- A.4 Gerda (Camilla) Fels (1882 - 1976)
 - married (1902) to the farmer (Ondekaremba/Namibia) Erich Rust (1872 - 1963)
 - B.1 Joachim (Theodor) Rust (*1903) married to Anneliese Rusch (*1909)
 - C.1 Erwin Rust (*1935)
 - C.2 Wilbert Rust (*1936)
 - B.2 Godofred Rust (*1905) married to Ruth Knirr (*1909)
 - C. Ehrhardt Rust (*1932)
 - B.3 Martin (Wilhelm) Rust (*1907) married (1937) to Marga Mundt (*1912)
 - B.4 Helmut Rust (*1911) married to Angelika Rusch (*1911)
 - C.1 Günther Rust (*1935; twin to C.2)
 - C.2 Ursula Rust (*1935; twin to C.1)
 - C.3 Sigenot Rust (*1937; male)
 - B.5 Johanna Camilla Rust (*1921)
- A.5 Waltraud Fels (1884 - 1962) married (1904) Wilhem Anz (1871 - 1943) (no children)

(B.1, B.2, B.3, B.4 and B.5 still living in 1990; the grandchildren [C]of Gerda [A.4] may not be complete)

Best regards

Martin

Felseck, Antonio Knauth's vacation home in Bolton Landing on Lake George, NY

Felseck was the name given to an estate built by Antonio Knauth in 1896-1897 on Lake George, NY. Felseck was a popular focal point for decades of vacations, weddings, birthdays and holiday events attended by Knauth relatives and friends. Note from Susanne Barrymore : Fels is rock, and eck is corner, and for those who know the place, you will remember that the granite behind the house was cut to create more space, creating a "corner in the rock". Percival's house next door, to the south of Felseck, was Waldeck - corner in the woods.

For more on Waldeck, go to 'W' on this page.

Waldeck, Percival Knauth's vacation home in Bolton Landing on Lake George, NY

Unfortunately, there are no pictures of 'Waldeck' and few references to it in Knauth reference documents, with the exception of the following excerpts extracted from Percival Knauth Memoir, by Theodore W. Knauth, 1951.

With his family established in its city home, Percival's next problem was the summer. Shandaken in the Catskills was given a trial, and then Connecticut, but Bolton Landing on Lake George was the place that best fitted all the requirements. A summer was spent in Villa Mathilde, hard by the old Mohican House. That fall a piece of land was bought, where the road and the lake came together by Artist Brook, with a high sand-bank on which to build a house, and what had been a field around it, in which a second-growth of little pine-trees stood waist-high. Here, in 1892, "Waldeck" was built by Philip Sawyer, of the later famous firm of York & Sawyer. Antonio built its neighbor, "Felseck" a few years afterwards, and further forest land, the "Hinterland" was added, to form a vacation place that was ideal both for children and for grown-ups. Percival loved his wild woods the more because of his own childhood in civilized Europe, the swimming, and the rowing on the lake, and he also took up his riding again on the back roads among the hills. More even than 302 (the primary home that Percival also built - 302 76th St, NYC - illustration under 'K - Knauth, Percival'), "Waldeck" became the family home, planned commodiously from the start for a big family and visitors in plenty. The family migrations in the early summer, and the return in the fall, undertaken jointly with other families, enough to fill a Wagner Palace Car on the Delaware & Hudson, with space on the Albany Night Boat, were an event. With the family away, Percival lived comfortably enough in the deserted city house, and took his holiday in August, the high spot of which was the fireworks display on Mother's Birthday, August 12th. What a day that always was !

Percival died at his summer home, Waldeck, at Bolton Landing on Lake George, on July 17, 1900.

This biography from the Archives of AskART:

The following information about Alice Walton Dunbar, sculptor, is submitted by her sister Susanne Dunbar Barrymore, and includes material offered by other siblings and friends.

Alice was born in 1923 in Kingston, New York; died 1996 in Lomontville, New York. The family lived in Hurley, 2 ½ miles outside of Kingston, in a rural area. Her father was a teacher of physics and chemistry at Kingston High School, and also ran a one person farm, where they could raise much of their food, have chickens and a cow, and Alice and her sister Violet had horses. Other siblings were Eva, Susanne, Edward, and James. Ilse Knauth Dunbar, their mother, managed the household, but was also a very artistic person and had a professionally trained soprano voice. It was an atmosphere where we were all encouraged to learn to do creative things, making things and playing music.

Alice was named for a paternal great aunt, Alice Walton, who was a classics professor at Wellesley College in the late 1800s. Interestingly, neither Alice ever married.

Alice had a studio at the family home in Hurley, until 1947 when the parents moved to another place in Lomontville, New York.. There they built a two car garage and attached space which became a studio for Alice when she was there. She was awarded a traveling scholarship, and went to France for a year to study in 1947-48.

Alice was artistically creative at an early age. Although I was 9 years younger, I can remember her participating in art classes while in high school. She then went to the Boston Museum School of Fine Arts, and studied there 1940-1945 with Frederick Allen; bluestone carving with Tomas Penning in Woodstock, NY; bronze casting with Angelica Bodky Lee in Boston, and later in 1969, on sabbatical leave, with Walter Weber in San Miguel de Allende, Mexico; resin casting with Elizabeth Mac-Lean Smith in Boston, MA.

Teaching:

Alice taught for two years at Spelman College, the African American women's branch of Atlanta University. She was there from September of 1945 to May of 1947. She then went on her European trip in 1947, returning to teach the second semester, January to May, of 1948. (This information was provided by the archivist Taronda Spencer at Spelman College.)

From 1948 through 1956, Alice worked in her studio at the family home in Lomontville, NY. She had some students occasionally, and was already a member of the Woodstock Art Association, showing there and at the Ulster County Community College nearby, but I don't have dates or records from that period.

She taught 35 years at Pomfret School, Pomfret, Connecticut from 1956 until 1991. In the Pomfret Winter/Spring 2003 Bulletin her student Peter Borgemeister '69 wrote a tribute to Alice Dunbar, in which he mentions she started teaching there with a single classroom on the third floor of the school building. When she left, Pomfret had a complete sculpture, ceramics, and metal-casting facility, which is a rarity at a secondary level school.

Ben Morgan, a colleague at Pomfret, who taught science and shop there, became a valuable support for the technical projects which Alice would initiate at the school, such as the bronze and aluminum casting. An incidental note of interest for them is that they both enjoyed playing chamber music together, Alice on flute, and Ben on keyboard.

Alice's sister and brother-in-law, Eva and Ralph C. Bailey, MD, were in Afghanistan on a two year US government program, and in the summer of 1958 Alice visited them. An early student, William Hayes, recalls on that trip she gathered some good ideas for sculptures, and one notable result was several versions of Afghan dancers, cast in bronze. This design was popular, he recalled, and there were several more commissioned. In 1961 Alice went around the world with her maternal aunt, Dr. Susanne K. Langer, who is known for her work in the field of philosophy of art. On this trip she amassed an extensive collection of sketches and notes which contributed to her art work later. In 1963 she traveled to Africa with Pomfret School International Seminar with 10 students, where she gathered more ideas for art work.

Exhibitions:

Alice Walton Dunbar worked in a variety of media, including marble, local Catskill, NY, "blue stone", bronze, wood, resin casting, and clay. Group shows in museums and galleries in New England and NY, in addition, she was invited to show in one or two person shows in:

Woodstock Art Association, NY
New England Sculptors Association
Essex Art Association, CT.
Ulster County Community College, NY
Reeves Gallery, Nacogdoches, TX
Middlesex, MA Mt. Hermon, MA
Weyhe Gallery, NY, NY
Pomfret, CT
Waterbury, CT
Norwich, CT
Hampton, CT
Mystic, CT

Commissions or where represented:

Executed many commissions for portraits of people and animals, fountains, garden sculpture, tombstones. Except for realistic representation in portraits, I believe the design of her work would be considered stylized forms of animals and people. Some commissions of which I have a record is the six foot bronze of a falconer in the courtyard at Pomfret School, CN. Mosaics and wood carvings for Rectory School chapel, Pomfret. Conn. Ten foot wood carving of Davey Jones in Elmendorf Heights, Kingston, NY. Large stone carving of 8 figures in front of the Episcopal Christ Church in Pomfret.

Honors and awards:

Mrs. David Hunt scholarship Boston Museum School 1941-1945; Mrs. David Hunt traveling scholarship for European Travel 1947-48; Croquis prizes, Boston Museum School: prizes in group shows in New England Sculptors' Association and in Essex Art Association.

Art Association Memberships:

Woodstock Art Association since 1948; New England Sculptors' Association - one time president, and on the board for several years; Essex Art Association; Mystic Art Association.

'Up the Mountain Road' book about Brother Louis - b. October 4, 1892 is probably incorrect.

Louis' family resided on a mountain called 'The Eagles Nest' in the Catskill mountains, near Hurley, NY. In his mid life, Louis lost interest as a lawyer and dedicated his life to Christianity and Evangelism. He wrote an unpublished autobiography which included details of his grand father's migration from Prussia to the US. He also wrote of his childhood years, college years, army years, his conversion to a devoted to Christian and later experiences. Hope Stanton Lee and her husband Harold met Louis in his later years and became very dear friends and fellow Christians. Hope was inspired to write a photo illustrated biography of 'Brother Louis' detailing his later years when she knew him and his ventures as an evangelist. Her book was called 'Up the Mountain Road'. Her husband had a few bound copies published. Unfortunately the book was not archived with a major publishing company, so it is not possible to have more of them published.

Excerpt from Knauth-Uhlich letters posted on

There are some letters to Ilse Knauth Dunbar, Else's daughter, married to Henry F. Dunbar. They are from 1939 and later, mostly from Hildegard Holzer, who was the daughter of Octavio Knauth and Clara Monhardt/Knauth, Antonio's youngest brother. He stayed in Germany, and also died 1900. Hildegard would therefore have been a first cousin of Ilse. On the family tree it is indicated that her first husband's name was Drusii Eremie Poppa. In the text there is a suggestion that he was Rumanian, and they lived in Rumania. They had Ileana, who married Dinu Aliman, (apparently shortened from Alimanestianu) and Octavio. She refers to these two in her letters on occasion. It seems that Ileana and Dinu came to the US, and have children. Her husband at the time of the letters is Ernie Holzer. No specific information as to his profession.

Memories from brother, Ted :

I have fond memories of my step brother, Jim (from Leah's 1st marriage to Robert Tilyou). I remember he was handsome, popular with friends, and had lots of admirers. He was called 'Red' by his friends, since he had auburn hair slicked back like the 'The Fonz' from 'Happy Days'. He was always working on old cars in the barn and he would take us kids for rides through the fields on the farm in old Ford and Chevy beaters with no doors. It seemed like we were going 100 mph with weeds and corn stalks flying by, but it was probably only 10-20 mph. I remember the feeling of air borne and holding on for dear life when we'd hit ruts and bumps while whipping down the lanes on the side of the fields. When we'd play football, he would drudge all the way across the yard for a touch down while dragging all of us glued to his heels like leaches. Before I knew it, he left home, found a job and we only saw him on holidays. He was engaged to be married when I was woken by my father to hear the tragic news. He was returning home from his fiancé's house late at night in his Corvette, came to a rail road crossing that had no flashing lights, skidded into a train and died at the scene of the accident. He was only 20. Sometimes, I wonder what we might be doing these days if he was still with us . . .
